

The Embassadors Introduction into the Audience hall

Three Years Travels from Moscow over-land to China:

“Thro’ Great Ustiga, Siriania, Permia, Sibiria, Daour, Great Tartary, & to Peking containing an exact and particular description of the extend and limits of those countries and the customs of the barbarous inhabitants; with reference to their religion, government, marriages, daily employments, habits, habitations, diet, death, funerals etc”.

To travel in 1692 from Moscow to Peking was a daring enterprise, crossing Central Asia on sleigh and horseback. Ysberants Ides, the Dutch-born ambassador was sent by Czar Peter the Great to Kang-Xi, the emperor of China, to improve the trade relations. He met an unusual friendly reception in Peking...

This book is unique, due to the early description of Siberia and the eye-witness account of the Peking Court life. The detailed description of China “done originally by a Chinese Author” and the 30 superb plates make it a significant document of its time.

This book, an ASCANIO Facsimile Edition of the original first edition in English, London 1706 is unabridged and complete with all 30 plates.
